LEARNING OBJECTIVES

At the conclusion of this educational activity, the learner should be able to:

1. Explain the diagnosis, treatment (including image-guided tumor ablation) and practical applications of imaging from the perspective of referring providers, including Urology and Gastroenterology.
2. Identify current, cutting edge MRI techniques and their clinical applications.
3. Recognize advanced imaging techniques such as dual energy CT and 4D imaging.

TARGET AUDIENCE

This course has been designed to give practicing radiologists a review and update of current concepts in diagnostic and interventional radiology.

ELEMENTS OF COMPETENCE

This CME activity has been designed to change learner competence and focuses on the American Board of Medical Specialties areas of patient care and procedural skills, and medical knowledge.

OBJECTIVE AND SCOPE

The main focus of the meeting this year will be on image-guided intervention and difficult diagnostic dilemmas.

Familiarity with the above topics will be increased through attendance at scheduled lectures and participation in informal small group discussions with faculty and other participants throughout the course. Attendance is limited to 28 registrants including faculty, so registrants can spend time in small group discussions. Educational videotapes will be available for viewing at any time.

STATEMENT OF NEED

Rapid technological advances make the world of radiology an ever-changing environment. To keep up with the most effective imaging choices for the most comprehensive patient care, it is imperative that discussion of and education on the latest advances in imaging techniques remains at the forefront in the minds of our radiologists. The Planning Committee has determined a strong need for this conference because of the progressive content nature, requests from past attendees, and evaluation summaries from previous years.
